U.S. Planes Spy Hideout

SAIGON (AP)—U.S. reconnaissance aircraft sighted a jungle hideout with about 500 buildings Monday about two miles inside Cambodia where allied forces are searching for the headquarters of the supreme Communist command.

Pilots reported some of the buildings are two stories high and have what seem to be radio antennae strung between them.

Brig. Gen. Robert M. Shoemaker, head of the allied task force of about 8,800 Americans and 2,000 South Vietnamese troops, declined to speculate whether the complex might be part of the well-dispersed headquarters of the enemy's Central Office for South Vietnam.

But, he told a news briefing: "It's definitely no village."

High-placed officials disclosed earlier that U.S. field commanders are planning intrusions of yet untouched enemy base camps along a 350-mile section of Cambodia's border with South Vietnam. At least one operation was reported in the final planning stages.

Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird said in Washington Saturday that all North Vietnamese and Viet Cong sanctuaries along the full length of the border would be attacked by the allies.

There are at least a half dozen enemy base camp areas in Cambodia from the western Mekong Delta to the area north of Saigon which are outside the areas attacked last week by upwards of 30,000 allied troops.

The two massive allied drives, one into an area known as the Parrot's Beak and the other into an area called the Fishhook, have accounted for 1,952 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong killed, according to headquarters and field reports late Monday. Some 466 enemy suspects have been detained.

American casualties stood at 14 dead and 47 wounded. South Vietnamese losses were put at 151 killed and 598 wounded.

The major aim of the twin allied offensives in Cambodia is to root out and destroy enemy base camps, storage areas and supplies, at last report more than 2,400 weapons had been seized or destroyed.

Troops of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division operating in the Fishhook northwest of Saigon on Sunday discovered 200 cases that contained 1,200 Communist AK47 and new SKS rifles. Most of them were destroyed by air strikes.

The American troops also found 121,000 pounds of rice, 23 supply trucks, 200 bicycle tires, 150 truck tires and 450 gallons of oil.

While pressing the search for enemy supplies, American forces rolled deeper into Cambodia on Monday to cut off any escape route for the estimated 7,000 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops who were believed inside the Fishhook before President Nixon sent in American ground troops.

Tanks and armored personnel carriers of the U.S. 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment moved up Route 7 from outside the bombed-out town of Mimot northeast to within 15 miles of Snoul. They met no opposition along the road. With the roads sealed off the allies hope to have the enemy locked in.

An AP field dispatch reported that as of late Monday no major enemy troop movements had been observed in the Fishhook.

"We're still on top of the enemy," Gen. Shoemaker told newsmen, "but I don't know what we're going to find exactly. I don't know where he is or where he's going."

UP, NOT DOWN — Fred R. Nebiker, 39, a Korean War veteran, suggests fighter pilots parachuting to safety may be going in the wrong direction—they should go up, not down. He invented this system which carries the pilot aloft in a hot air balloon when he ejects from his plane. The pilot airborne recovery device (PARD) fits atop the pilot's regular parachute. When it is out of its packing and filled with air, a butane burner can be ignited, to fill it with hot gas and provide lift. The pilot-turned-balloonist then hovers at 6,000 feet until he drifts over friendly territory or is "snatched" by rescue aircraft. UPI Telephoto

Church Real Estate Exempt From Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court approved 7 to 1 Monday the continued exemption of more than $100 billion in church-owned property from real estate taxes.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger said the exemption for property used for religious purposes reflects a tolerance of religion without advancing any one sect or religion in general.

"Few concepts are more deeply imbedded in the fabric of our national life," he said in his most significant opinion since becoming chief justice.

The ruling rejected the proposition that the exemption is a form of sponsorship of religion prohibited by the First Amendment to the Constitution.

Burger said the basic purpose of the amendment is that the government be neutral, "to insure that no religion be sponsored or favored, none commanded and none inhibited."

When all sects are equally exempted from taxation, he said, none can be singled out for oppression in the form of a heavy tax on it alone.

In that respect, Burger said, the exemption allowed by all 50 states furthers the First Amendment concept that church and state be kept separate.

Justice William O. Douglas dissented. He said tax exemption may seem a minimal involvement of government in religion, but it could be a long step down the path toward government establishment of religion.

Douglas said five states are subsidizing parochial schools and the federal government is making grants to church-owned colleges. He said of the churches: "The extent to which they are feeding from the public trough in a variety of forms is alarming."

The churches own real estate with an estimated worth of $160 billion. Of this property an estimated $102 billion is used for religious purposes, according to American United for Separation of Church and State.

The New York tax exemption was challenged by Frederick Walz, a lawyer who lives in the Bronx and owns a 22-by-29 foot parcel of land on Staten Island.

At the same time, the meanwhile, the justices upheld a federal law that requires mailers to stop sending "obscene" advertisements to people who don't want to receive them.

Burger, speaking for the court, swept aside the argument that access to the mails is a freedom protected by the First Amendment.

"But," the chief justice added,

"the right of every person to be let alone must be placed in the scales with the right of others to communicate."

Editorial Comment

Representation For D.C.

The formidable strength of the League of Women Voters of the United States is being brought to bear on a serious governmental inequity of long standing. This is the fact that though Washington, D.C., is governed by Congress its residents have no representation in Congress. The League's drive to correct this will come to a head on May 6, when petitions gathered by members throughout the country will be presented to members of Congress.

The League of Women Voters is by no means alone in the belief that the people of Washington should no longer be denied this basic democratic right. Both major political parties and a variety of organizations have voiced support of the idea. President Nixon has rightly observed that "the District's citizens should not be expected to pay taxes for a government they have no right in choosing . . . or to bear the full burdens of citizenship without the full rights of citizenship."

What it amounts to is that at present Washington residents' rights of citizenship are crippled: they can vote for president and vice president, and elect their local school board, but that is all. They have no representative voice to speak for them in Congress, though laws enacted by Congress apply to them as well as to citizens throughout the country. Moreover, the federal and local taxes that District of Columbia residents must pay are determined by Congress; they are victims of that classic ailment, taxation without representation.

The point need not be labored. Here we have a gross injustice which could be readily corrected. The campaign of the League of Women Voters deserves vigorous support, and Congress ought to act favorably without further delay.

Swindlers On The Loose

In the spring, the householder's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of home improvements. This warrants a word of caution: Beware the itinerant swindler—that door-to-door salesman who peddles new roofing, furnaces, siding and the like at what seem like most attractive prices.

It would be grossly unfair to suggest that all such salesmen or the outfits they represent are crooked; that is simply not the case. The home repair racket is well established, however: Americans get rooked to the tune of about half a billion dollars a year paid out for repairs that aren't what they're represented to be. Despite efforts of the Better Business Bureau to put a monkeywrench in these nefarious works, the racket continues to thrive.

The swindles may take a variety of forms, but here's one case in point: A furnace-cleaning specialist offers to look over the heating equipment at a house and estimate the cost of the job. His pleasingly low bid is accepted, but then while the job is under way he finds unsuspected dangers—carbon monoxide leakage, boiler ready to blow or something like that. Whereupon the price goes up, the homeowner is bilked and the swindler is on his way before the fraud is revealed.

The chief weapon against such bilking is an informed skepticism. The Better Business Bureau urges homeowners to check the salesman's references, noting that the honest operator is always willing to provide them. That's good advice.

Agnew Calls For Crackdown

Nixon Making Headway In Hands-Off Campus Policy

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is making headway in his quiet campaign to keep the federal government out of campus affairs while his vice president is making headlines by calling for a crackdown on student demonstrators.

The President, despite continuing campus unrest, is sticking by his frequently stated position that it is a problem for the colleges to solve, not the government.

Nixon gained a valuable ally Thursday when Minnesota Rep. Albert H. Quie, probably the most influential House Republican on education matters, endorsed the White House's hands-off policy.

Although Vice President Spiro T. Agnew is not proposing federal action, his widely publicized attacks on student agitators and college presidents he says fail to stand up against militants is seen by the academic community and its supporters as a government attempt to influence campus policy.

"When the vice president of the United States calls for the ouster of the presidents of two major universities," said Rep. John Brademas, D-Ind., "that is a form of intervention by the federal government in the conduct of a university that is tantamount to an attempt at federal control."

"Moreover," he added, "the vice president's statements are certainly not in keeping with the clear and, I believe, laudatory stand of the President."

Nixon's stand also was strongly endorsed Thursday by Robert F. Goheen, president of Princeton University, at a hearing before the House education subcommittee.

It was during the hearing when Quie dropped his little bombshell on Chairman Edith Green, D-Ore., his ally last year in an effort to require colleges, under penalty of losing federal aid, to adopt a code of student conduct and fix penalties for violations.

"I've come to the conclusion now that we ought to keep hands off," said Quie. "We've gone about as far as we can and any further action would be counterproductive."

Last year by the margin of a single vote in the Education and Labor Committee, Quie and Mrs. Green failed to get their proposal to the House floor where it undoubtedly would have been overwhelmingly approved.

Quie's Thursday announcement had an immediate impact on the committee. Several Republicans who had supported the Green-Quie approach last year indicated they too would switch with Quie.

And Mrs. Green, who has introduced a higher education bill containing the code of conduct provision, said after the hearing that she was not wedded to the concept.

She said she would insist, however, on retention of an existing provision calling for cutting off federal aid to any student convicted of a crime growing out of a campus uprising.

Quie said he would support that provision.

Space Cuts Won't Solve Earth's Ills

By BRUCE BISSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA) — The biggest cop-out in town—not to mention elsewhere in the country—is the notion that if the space program were somehow cut to the bone we could be spending the money "more usefully" to solve the nation's urban and other social ills.

In the first place, neither the space program nor the immensely more costly Vietnam war prevented a huge, steady rise in government outlays for education, welfare, Social Security and health (mostly for the aged) in the decade of the 1960s.

In the second, and I have examined this matter in terms of detailed figures before, there is no convincing evidence in U.S. history that when war or some other extraordinary event (like the leap to the moon) ends, Congress simply goes on spending the same total sums but reallocates the "extra" appropriations to "more fruitful" domestic uses.

In the third place, every sensible indicator we have shows that outlays for education, health, etc., are going to continue rising as both population and people's expectations rise. Right now committees in both houses are fretting furiously over the incredible costs of the Medicare-Medicaid programs. Cities are frantic in their quest for welfare funds. They want to pass to the states the entire burden of education except that portion borne by the federal government.

Anybody with a pencil and a little hard confrontation with these prospects can understand very quickly that if the space program never got another dime and the war's expense began tapering off sharply toward zero tomorrow, all the moneys saved would be speedily swept up in this almost uncontrollable upward spiral of social costs.

Now some of this is inevitable. People cost money. And we are boosting our numbers every day. Unless we are seriously prepared to act to control population growth, at least some portion of the concern being widely expressed over our social problems is pure hypocrisy.

But there is something else in the picture nearly as important. For quite a long time, but acutely in 1968 and 1969, the social analysts and some of the more astute politicians have been coming to realize that money alone is not the great cure.

Where in the world have these people been who keep hollering about allocating war and space savings to "rebuild the cities" and accomplish a long list of other critical social tasks?

The most cogent debate that has been raging in this country for at least the last year starts from the demonstrable premise that the great money allocations—particularly for welfare but also for some portions of the housing and education tasks—have been substantial failures.

I heard not just conservative Republicans but one-time liberal firebrands like Hubert Humphrey talking this game as long as five years ago. Everybody in this town who has his head screwed on right knows these men are dwelling on the hard realities.

What we need to deal with the problems of the ghetto, of racial strife, of suburban sprawl, of pollution, of crime and unrest is not just an end to extraordinary enterprises like war but more knowledge about these difficulties and how to attack them.

We live in the age of the knowledge explosion, yet any sane social specialist will tell you there are vast gaps in our knowledge of the make-up of the ghetto, the forces of migration, the aspirations and fears of whites and blacks in varying economic and social configurations. Worse still, my talks with the collectors of data, from the White House to the Census Bureau, indicate that volumes of potentially helpful data are smothering in dust while problems fester.

Ann Landers:

Learns Son Is Drug Pusher

Dear Ann Landers: My son who is a college freshman doesn't know it but I learned, by accident, that he not only uses marijuana but is selling the stuff to his classmates. Yesterday I discovered he has introduced his younger brother to it.

If my husband knew about this, he would kill the kid. I am so torn up I can't eat or sleep. Please tell me what to do.—Frantic Mother

Dear Mother: You need two things—information and courage. Learn from a lawyer the penalties for possessing and selling marijuana in your state. Then speak to your son (the pusher) calmly and firmly. No hysterics. Explain what he is letting himself in for if he is caught. Let him know there will be no pot in your house; and if he insists on smoking, he will have to get out.

If he says, "The law is on my side. I'm a minor and I don't have to get out," tell him: "If you want to get technical, I can get technical, too. If I catch you smoking pot in this house, I will turn you over to the juvenile authorities."

If push comes to shove, make good the threat. Then speak to his brother and explain the dangers of pot. Encourage him to talk to your family doctor or to a school authority. You don't say how old the younger brother is. If he is not yet in high school, be aware that most junior high schools now have trained counselors who do a fine job. And good luck to you, dear—and to all others who have to face this problem. It's one of the roughest.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm enjoying your running battle on pornography. The reader who observed that some very bright people enjoy it was an understatement, to say the least. And this is only part of the story. Are you aware that one of this country's most distinguished Americans also enjoyed peep shows? Would you believe Oliver Wendell Holmes? You can print this without fear of being sued by his relatives because it is a matter of record. Look it up anyplace.—The Old Historian

Dear Old Historian: "The record" says nothing about peep shows. It is a well known fact, however, that the distinguished Supreme Court Justice occupied a regular seat at the Gayety Theater in Washington, D.C. And just to keep the record straight, Dad, burlesque in those days showed less than can now be seen at any soda fountain, or on any bus.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 15-year-old girl who has had it with my grandmother. She lives in Albuquerque. Grandma clips your columns out of the Tribune and mails them to me. I've told her a thousand times we get your column here in the Santa Fe New Mexican so she doesn't have to bother.

Whenever you print a column about a teen-age girl who is pregnant, Grandma circles it with pencil. Lately she has been sending all your columns about pot and the big H. I got one yesterday.

I am not sleeping with anybody and I have no plans to. I've tried pot a couple times and it does nothing for me. Stronger stuff is for idiots. I'll never make that scene. Tell Grandma to stop sending me your columns. She's getting on my nerves.—One Too Many

Dear Grandma: Save your stamps. I'm sure you mean well, but your approach is poised to kill. So take the hint

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The growth of Japan's economy relies on its export trade. The World Almanac says that U.S. Commodore Matthew C. Perry visited Japan in July, 1853, and became the first Westerner to open the nation to international trade. In March, 1854, Perry concluded a treaty that allowed American ships to trade at the Japanese ports of Shimoda and Hakodate.

Law For Today

Q. My son and I have a savings account which we hold in joint tenancy with right of survivorship. My second husband insists that in the event of my death the money will belong to him. He says that the names on the pass book don't mean a thing. Is this correct?

A. No. Property held in joint tenancy with right of survivorship passes automatically upon death to the surviving tenant or tenants. A savings account held in this kind of ownership would not go through probate. As there may be several kinds of accounts with two or more names, the depositors should verify with the bank that the account is in fact a joint tenancy account with right of survivorship. In order to claim any part of the funds held in such an account, a person who was not a joint tenant would have to show that the joint tenancy was used to deprive him of property in which he had a lawful interest.

A GLANCE Into The Past

10 YEARS AGO

All the favorites ran out of the money in the Kentucky Derby trial Tuesday, with Beau Purple, a virtual unknown, collecting the $16,000 stakes at Churchill Downs.

The Scott County 4-H Show and Junior Fair will be held Aug. 8-9 at the new fairgrounds in Winchester, announces George Lawson, chairman.

The month of April was much wetter and warmer than usual.

20 YEARS AGO

April was cold and dry.

The board of trustees is advertising for bids to build the new Passavant Area Memorial hospital west of the city. It is slated to cost $2,100,000.

Newly elected directors of the Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce are J. C. Colton, Tom Cornish, Robert A. Fay, Harry Lee Hall, George Lukeman and Gordon Walker.

50 YEARS AGO

The good people of Union Baptist church, Pisgah Precinct, have decided to build a new church, right away, to cost in the neighborhood of $20,000. The soliciting committee got off to a good start when A. A. Curry led out with a subscription of $10,000 and no doubt the sum necessary will be raised before next Sunday.

More of the big business houses who send out letters now follow the practice of having the officer's signature typed as well as penned. It's an excellent custom, for many of these big business men cultivate signatures that leave their identity almost wholly to the imagination of the recipient.

75 YEARS AGO

Yesterday our base ball team went to St. Joe, Mo., where they open the Western association season to-day.

In all the educational institutions in the city the students are at work preparing their commencement essays and the year's work is being rounded up, with the end in view.

Jerry Collins successfully hived a swarm of bees yesterday. This is remarkably early intended to protect passengers from the hazard of fire at sea. But this case is not ordinary: for one thing, the Delta Queen does not operate at sea, but on a river where she could be quickly run aground in an emergency. The degree of hazard is not comparable to that involving a vessel far at sea. The Delta Queen is the last of the vessels Mark Twain wrote about so movingly in "Life On The Mississippi." It seems a pity that, still strong, she should be done in by an inflexible safety-at-sea statute.

100 YEARS AGO

We are now having June weather, the thermometer ranging around eighty-five degrees in the middle of the day, with a refreshing southerly breeze in the evening, to make it pleasant.

Dr. M. A. Halsted and Miss Lizzie W. Hockenull were united in marriage yesterday before a small concourse of friends. No cards—but much cake, for which we are truly grateful.

Arrangements are complete for the dedication of the new Centenary M. E. Church Sunday. It is requested that all small children be allowed to remain at home.

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — For a couple of seasons now, the near-sighted German soldier on "Laugh-In" has been bidding a somewhat mocking goodnight to Lucy. Now it's Lucy's turn to laugh.

The running gag, delivered by "Laugh-In's" Arto Johnson, bore obvious meaning inside the television trade. The Rowan and Martin show had been the first to challenge successfully the longtime rating supremacy of Lucille Ball on Monday night.

But in its third season "Laugh-In" started to display signs of wear. In recent weeks

"Here's Lucy" has been showing its oldtime strength, placing among the top 10 shows in the ratings. The slide of "Laugh-In" was only natural, observes Lucille Ball—"When you're the No. 1 show, there's only one way you can go: Down."

While she didn't wish the opposition any ill, she admitted she was not amused by Arto Johnson's sign-off messages. "As long as he just said goodnight to me, it was okay," she said. "When he started including Gary, I didn't think that was right. I didn't like having my husband brought into it."

Husband Gary Morton acts as executive producer of "Here's Lucy." Her sister, Cleo Smith, functions as producer of the series, which also stars Miss Ball's children, Lucie Arnaz and Desi Arnaz Jr. Cozy? Lucille admits it is.

"But my nepotism has paid off," she adds. "I'm proud of the jobs that Gary, Cleo and the kids have done. We've got a smooth-running organization, one that really gets the job done."

Among the new things for the 1970-71 season will be guest appearances by Richard Burton and Elizabeth Taylor. How Lucille landed the famed pair is worth a Lucy show in itself.

"I saw him at a crowded party and he pointed a finger at me and said, 'I am crazy about your show; you must have me on it.' I couldn't believe he was serious. When we went to the Burtons' hotel bungalow later, I told Gary he was absolutely not to mention it."

"The next day I told him under no circumstances was he to call Burton or his agent. But then his publicity man, John Springer, called us and said Richard was anxious to do the show."

A script was concocted in which Lucy mistakes Burton for a plumber. It will be filmed next week.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Tuesday, May 5, the 125th day of 1970. There are 240 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1961, Alan B. Shepard Jr. was rocketed 115 miles into space from Cape Kennedy, Fla.—becoming the first U.S. space explorer.

On this date: In 1821, Napoleon Bonaparte died in exile on the island of St. Helena.

In 1824, Rangoon, Burma, was captured by the British.

In 1864, Union troops were routed by Confederates in the Civil War battle of the Wilderness, west of Fredericksburg, Va.

In 1936, war ended in Ethiopia as the capital Addis Ababa, fell to Italian troops.

In 1942, British naval forces invaded the island of Madagascar and took over the naval base from the French Vichy administration. It was the first Allied invasion of War II.

In 1955, West Germany became a sovereign state as the terms of the Paris Agreements of 1954 went into effect.

Ten years ago—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev angrily announced that an American U-2 spy plane piloted by Francis Gary Powers had been shot down over Russia.

Five years ago—Troops of the U.S. 173rd Airborne Brigade arrived as the first American ground forces in South Vietnam.

One year ago—Britain asserted its intention to press for full membership in the European Common Market after French President Charles de Gaulle had left office.

Say Beardstown Water System Among Worst

BEARDSTOWN — The May 2 issue of the Saturday Review said that Beardstown's water system is sub standard.

An article by Sally Lindsay in the nationally circulated magazine listed six major deficiencies in the local system, thus enhancing the position of Mayor Hap Murray and some city officials who have been insisting on a new water system here.

The article listed among the deficiencies "failure to maintain adequate sampling schedules for measuring bacteriological standards."

According to the article, Beardstown is among 14 places in the nation with three or more major deficiencies.

The article listed three classifications for rating drinking water in municipalities: approved, provisionally approved and prohibited.

The regular testing of Beardstown water has been maintained for many years. The samples, so far as any announced reports are concerned, have always been found by the state as "safe for drinking."

VIRGINIA GRADE STUDENT IN STATE COMPETITION

VIRGINIA — The grade students went to Abingdon April 25 to participate in the State music, literary and art contests.

Debbie Daniel spent last weekend in Normal as a guest of her sister, JoAnn, during Little Sister's Weekend at Illinois State University.

Mike Clement spent last weekend with his brother, David, a student at I.S.U.

Grand Jury Indicts Three

A 23-member Morgan County Grand Jury was convened by Associate Circuit Judge John B. Wright Monday morning to consider three cases pending.

The grand jury heard evidence presented by State's Attorney Charles J. Ryan and returned indictments in all three.

Edward Charles Stucker, 19, of 233 E. Dunlap was formally charged with rape on March 27. Stucker is currently in jail under $20,000 bond.

William Charles Watts, 24, of 905 N. Clay was formally charged with taking indecent liberties with a minor. The offense was listed as happening on Feb. 25. Watts is also in the county jail under $20,000 bond pending further appearances.

Joyce Anderson of Beardstown was indicted for deceptive practice. She reportedly passed a check in the amount of $177 at Myers Bros. on March 13.

Judge Wright excused the grand jury from further service unless specifically called. He told the jury their terms would expire the second Monday in July.

Edward Hyatt Of Meredosia Dies Sunday

Edward A. Hyatt, 62, of Meredosia died at 7 a.m. Sunday in a Jacksonville hospital.

He was born June 23, 1908, in Meredosia, the son of Edward and Effie Hyatt. He married Anna Mae Hobbs, who survives.

Also surviving is a son, Reginald J. Hyatt, and four grandchildren, James, Christi, Billy and Evan.

Four sisters, Mrs. Myrtle Omen of Meredosia; Mrs. Gladys Koehler of Lisle; Mrs. Bernita Curley of Kansas City, Mo.; and Mrs. Herbie Parker of Captiva, Florida, and two brothers, Robert Hyatt of Wilmette and Van Hobart Hyatt of Krotz Springs, Louisiana, also survive.

Mr. Hyatt was a member of the Masonic Lodge 52 AF and AM of Meredosia.

Friends may call at the Schaefer Funeral Home in Meredosia from 7 to 9 p.m. Tuesday.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the funeral home. Rev. Elmer Palmer will officiate. Interment will be in the Chapin cemetery.

YOUR BIRTHDAY AND HOROSCOPE

TUESDAY, MAY 5—Born today, you have a basic dislike for all forms of pretense. You find it extremely difficult to put your best foot forward or to put on your most agreeable face when you do not feel inwardly in complete agreement with the outward appearance. You would rather stand up and be counted for good or ill than sit still and receive benefits you feel you don't really deserve. You carry this same dislike for pretense into your relationships with others; you expect honesty from people.

You expect honesty—but you don't always get it. Indeed, you are one of those people who will throughout life be hurt more by your own disappointed expectations of others than by actual physical or emotional blows aimed at you by those who would see you unhappy. Learn to accept people for what they are—some good, some not so good—and to adjust your expectations to what others can deliver.

A highly ambitious person, you nevertheless will not go very far out of your way to succeed. You prefer to live a settled life, one which may hold you back from the heights of success but which, as compensation, will prove relatively peaceful. High drama stirs you but it does not really attract you. You would rather your life were untroubled.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Wednesday, May 6

TAURUS (April 21-May 21)—Consider all the alternates before making up your mind. Otherwise, you may miss out on something important.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21)—Proposals for the coming days may not be quite as well received as you had hoped. Continue, however, to suggest alternatives.

CANCER (June 22-July 23)—If one method of meeting the problem doesn't work, don't hesitate to use another. Take family members into your confidence.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23)—You would be wise now to take some economy measures at this time. Otherwise, you may find yourself in financial difficulties very soon.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23) —

Self-control: this is your best measure for the day's behavior. Don't be too sure there's nothing you can do about the present situation.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23)—A day when numbers definitely count. Take your time firming up your relationships on the employment scene. A good day for Libra.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)—Be sure that the facilities you will need for the suggested project are available. You may be in for disappointment.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22)—Keep yourself aware of the changes in the surrounding area and you can halt an inconvenience before it begins.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)—Don't take your reforming tendencies too seriously. If you do, you may make attractive precisely what you would outlaw.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19)—A day for taking advantage of the cultural side of life. You may find unusual inspiration in books and music.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 21)—Don't take every rhetorical question too much to heart. This is a day when you may gain new knowledge effortlessly.

ARIES (March 22-April 20)—The Aries who goes out of his way to demonstrate his authority may be in for a rude awakening. Not everyone thinks you're boss.

Advices Against Ironing On Scorched Board Cover

By POLLY CRAMER
DEAR POLLY—I am writing this for the lady who said that using colored ironing board covers made this job more interesting. I do professional ironing and have had lots of women complain about their white things scorching so easily even when the iron is set on "Cool." It is not the bleach they are using nor the iron setting but is usually a scorched ironing board cover. When clothes are damp and steam from the iron seeps through the scorch on the board cover, it makes an imprint on the "whites." Never iron "whites" on an ironing board cover that has any scorch spots on it. If this cover is of printed or colored fabric, you would not be able to see scorch and might ruin some white things.—ESTELLE

DEAR POLLY—Mrs. G. S. wanted to know how to clean her heating pad. It think it is much easier to make a pretty print pad cover. When dirty, it is easy to slip off and launder.—ANNA

Modern-day Image for Mother

I am anxious to see what those actively engaged in the Women's Lib movement are going to do about Mother's Day. Possibly they'll come out with bumper stickers that say, "Children—Love 'em or Leave 'em."

While I personally do not identify with the more radical members of the liberation movement, don't think for a minute I'm defending the practice of setting aside one Sunday each year for the purpose of growing misty-eyed over mothers. Perhaps it's oversimplifying, but for me, it's once a mother, always a mother and I believe she should be both honorable and honored without the urging of candy companies and florists.

In the past many visualized a mother (or almost any woman) as being sweet-tempered, sweet-smelling and slightly stupid about anything except how to remove scorched spots on men's shirts. Well, yes, she also was supposed to bake sugar cookies.

Today we see woman not as a stereotyped slave but as a human being with human-type desires and dreams that extend beyond the confines of washbasin and kitchen range.

The whole concept of "what is a mother" has changed radically and, I believe, for the best. For one thing, classifying all women who have borne children into one group is possible only if one refers simply to a basic fact of biology. One simply can't tidily lump together "being motherly," "being a good mother" and "having a baby."

But mostly what I'd like to remove from the old-fashioned version of a mother is that she is stupid about anything not pertaining to hearth and home. I am more than happy to keep seeing her as sweet-smelling all of the time and sweet-tempered at least part of the time. (And that's why, I suppose, I have never been offered a job as officer in any women's lib group.)

Frankly, I wonder how many women have joined the activists because at this moment it is the chic thing to do. After all, it is extremely easy to exchange one set of labels for another without really accomplishing anything. And one can so easily fall prey to his own prejudices. For example, does hating the idea of women being portrayed as a sex object it is necessary to take off your bra while saying so?

If you dislike the idea that women can and are manipulated by dress designers, do you have to dress like a 1920 Girl Scout leader in order to prove your point?

In order to discard the old image of a mother as woman-in-apron-with-cookie-jar, is it necessary to view all men as oppressors?

You will receive a dollar if Polly uses your favorite home-making idea. Polly's Problem or solution to a problem. Write Polly in care of this newspaper.

What Do Many Doctors Use When They, Themselves, Suffer From Hemorrhoids?

A survey among doctors showed 58% of the doctors reporting either use Preparation H® themselves or recommend it for their families.

Preparation H gives prompt, temporary relief in many cases from pain, itching of tissues and actually helps shrink swollen tissues of hemorrhoids caused by inflammation and infection. It also lubricates to help protect the inflamed, irritated surface area and helps make bowel movements less painful. There's no other formula for hemorrhoids like Preparation H. Ointment or suppositories.

TODAY'S THOUGHT
By BILL BUCHANAN

We hear a lot these days about special groups wanting and sometimes demanding special rights. . . . There is only one special group we can think of that is really entitled to special rights. But that group - with few exceptions - ever ask or expect special favors.

This special group includes the poor and the rich. They are loving, thoughtful, considerate. They are seen everywhere. Though some are "deprived," they rarely ask things for themselves. They think of others ahead of themselves. When something needs to be done, they are the first to be called on. In emergencies, they are the first to take over. As individuals, they are the busiest, most active and the most important people in the world. If it were not for them, NONE of us would be here. . . .

We honor them individually on Mother's Day - the mothers everywhere!

CLOTHES CARE TODAY
By RUTH E. HOWARD

Those who are concerned with designing patterns, must hear the grass growing, so to speak; they must recognize beforehand, revolutions of style in the fine arts, must watch the tendencies in politics, civilization, and the techniques, and study the spheres of life of the different classes of buyers; in short, they have to be sensitive in every respect. At times it will happen that exceptional creative personalities set a fashion for some while, and they will succeed the better, the more means they have at their command for their experiments. Yet experiments they remain, and their success or failure depends on many imponderabilities. Every selection of a pattern resembles an equation with several unknown quantities. At Monte Carlo it happened that gamblers tried to break the bank by "dead certain systems" that they had puzzled out, resting on a theory of probabilities and on experience of long standing. Designers and managers of print works are in a similar situation, especially when they have dealings with the masses of restless townsmen, who differ so widely in temperament, manners and customs, and incomes, whereas country people are more conservative.

Peoria Barbecue To Launch 'Beef Month'

John Killam of rural route 1, Jacksonville, of the Illinois Livestock Feeders association announced plans for the second annual beef barbecue, to recognize the beef industry of Illinois.

The farm organizations, beef breed associations, universities, livestock groups and the Illinois Department of Agriculture are sponsoring the activities of Illinois Beef Month.

The barbecue, which is an annual event for producers, will initiate promotion activities observing May as Illinois Beef Month. This event will be in Peoria at the Exposition Gardens from 6 to 9 p.m. Friday, May 8.

The highlight of the evening will be the crowning of Miss Illinois Beef by John W. Lewis, director of the Illinois Department of Agriculture. According to Lewis, the beef industry in Illinois contributes over one billion dollars to the economy of the State of Illinois, making this one of the largest industries in our state.

The public is invited to attend the beef barbecue. Reservations should be made with Beef Barbecue, Exposition Gardens, Box 3334, Peoria, Illinois 61614, or by calling Mrs. Lowry at 309-691-6332.

Continue Search For 21 Plane Crash Victims

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — The U.S. Coast Guard kept up its search today for 21 passengers and one crew member missing from a jetliner that ditched in the Caribbean Saturday during a driving rainstorm.

There were 40 known survivors and one known dead. Most of the passengers were vacationers from the New York area.

There was speculation that the 21 missing had gone to the bottom with the plane's fuselage. But a Coast Guard spokesman said: "We're not giving up on the missing."

The DC9, leased by the Dutch Antillean Airline from Overseas National Airways, was bound from New York to St. Martin, in the Leeward Islands 200 miles west of San Juan.

The plane circled St. Martin four times but was not able to land because of poor visibility, said Roger Schmidt, 52, a passenger from New York City.

Capt. Halsey DeWitt of Hopewell Junction, N.Y., one of the four crew members who survived, then headed for St. Croix, in the Virgin Islands, but ran out of fuel before he could reach it. He radioed that he was ditching.

Organization Opposes Public Funds For Private Schools

A group of area citizens met Sunday for the expressed purpose of voicing concern over proposals to offer public funds for private and parochial schools in Illinois.

Held in the First Christian Church, the meeting resulted in a oneness of attitude on the issue. A second gathering was called for Tuesday morning at 6:30 a.m. at Hamilton's restaurant and will be open to all who wish to come.

During the afternoon, the specific reasons for resisting private schools receiving public funds were stated by different individuals in the forum type assembly. Some were as follows:

The diverting use of public funds, causing the state to enter a pluralistic system of school support, threatens the quality and the very existence of a strong and unified public school system. State support could not equitably be limited to just schools now in existence, but must similarly underwrite all the increasing number of private schools "born" through state aid.

State aid to private schools positions the state as the underwriter of, in effect, a "freedom of choice" school system. The increasing number of private schools would give every parent and child numerous choices regarding school attendance. If the family considers the area public school particularly unfavorable racially, economically, socially, then a choice would be made between numerous other state supported private schools. Basically for this reason, it was pointed out, the U.S. Supreme Court has ruled unfavorably on the "freedom of choice" school system.

In regard to the Governor allocating $29,000,000 of his state budget for the support of private and parochial schools, concern was expressed over changing practice in violation of the constitution before changing the constitution. Article VIII, Section III of the current Illinois Constitution was cited which states "Neither the General Assembly nor any county, city, town, township, school district or other public corporation, shall ever make any appropriation or pay from any public fund whatever, anything in aid of any church or sectarian purpose, or to help support or sustain any school, academy, seminary, college, university, or other literary or scientific institution, controlled by any church or sectarian denomination whatever."

In the light of growing relationships of appreciation and cooperation among the churches, alarm was raised as to the added dangers of polarizing, segmenting, and dividing of communities that aid to private schools afforded. It was felt that deep resentment would certainly arise from the unchurched citizens being forced to pay for the church controlled school ministry of the church, and much divisive deep feeling would be evidenced from the church being forced to pay for the school ministries of other churches.

The discussion acknowledged that parochial schools faced pressures, but the unanimous consensus was that far greater problems would soon be faced once state aid to private schools became a practice.

Concerning the threatened closing of parochial schools if state aid is not given, a quote from the larger statement of the Illinois Education association's opposition of state aid to private schools was entered. The oft heard rationale is that "If all private and parochial schools were to close, it would be impossible for the public schools to take care of the tremendous influx of students."

The IEA, composed of most of the public school teachers in Illinois responded in part, "This statement is directed primarily to the talk of closing of Catholic schools, since there has been very little mention of other church schools or private schools closing if state aid is not received. A number of Catholics have identified this as being a type of 'scare tactic,' and that regardless of what happens relative to public aid for nonpublic schools, most of the Catholic schools will not close."

The meeting was closed with a reinforced group feeling that the further violation of the sacred constitutional principle of separation of church and state was not one of the answers to solving for very long any of the immediate problems of education.

QUARTER MILLION
RAISED IN HIKES FOR HUNGER

CHICAGO (AP) — Some 60,000 persons raised an estimated quarter of a million dollars by walking or running 30 miles in the Chicago area to help feed the hungry.

Six separate "Hikes for Hunger" took place—five in suburban areas and the sixth in DeKalb. All were sponsored by organizations connected with the American Freedom from Hunger Foundation.

The hikes, mostly high school and college students, were sponsored by persons or groups who pledged a certain amount of money for each mile completed.

Most of those who started the treks went the whole distance, despite blisters and fatigue. A north suburban group of cross-country team members covered a 30-mile route in four hours to lead the pace.

The turnout, well above expectations, was bolstered by clear skies and temperatures in the 70s.

PROMOTE GREENE MAN IN GERMANY

A driver with Headquarters Company, Second Battalion of the division's 36th Infantry, he entered the Army in June, 1968, and completed basic training at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo. He was last stationed at Ft. Knox, Ky.

Bridge Washout In Cass County

BEARDSTOWN, ILL. — Heavy rains totaling over 4 inches in the past few days have spread their effects throughout this area. A bridge washout on the Burlington Northern railroad over Prairie Creek between Arenzville and Hogener south of Beardstown caused some rerouting of trains over the K line. The washout occurred Friday night and halted traffic until repairs are made.

Buckeyes Stay Unbeaten In Big Ten Action

CHICAGO (AP) — The Buckeyes of Ohio State remained undefeated in quest of the Big Ten baseball championship and rolled up four more victories over the weekend.

The Buckeyes tripped defending champion Minnesota 11-10 and 7-6 Friday and then mauled Iowa 3-1 and 8-0 Saturday to boost their record to 8-0 and grab a two-game lead over second place Wisconsin.

Wisconsin kept pace Friday with 13-6 and 6-1 triumphs over Illinois but the Badgers tumbled Saturday when they dropped the first game of a doubleheader to Purdue 2-1 but regained their poise to win the nightcap 8-1.

Minnesota came back from its disastrous meeting with Ohio State to take a pair from Indiana 4-0 and 5-4 and remain in contention, two games behind the league-leading Buckeyes.

Illinois evened its record by taking a pair from winless Northwestern 4-3 and 9-1 while Michigan edged Michigan State 3-2 Saturday after having lost to the Spartans 6-3 on Friday.

Ohio State faces a stiff challenge this weekend when the Buckeyes hit the road for a pair at Michigan State Friday and two more games at Michigan Saturday.

Second place Wisconsin also is on the road with a pair at Minnesota Friday and two at Iowa Saturday. Minnesota, still clinging to its hopes, stays home. In addition to Friday's doubleheader with Wisconsin, the Gophers entertain Northwestern in a pair Saturday.

FIREMEN CALLED TWICE MONDAY

City firemen were called to a car fire and a garage fire Monday night.

At 8:20 p.m. a crew was sent to South Fayette, behind the Jacksonville High school gym, where a 1965 Ford station wagon had been burning. Some material in the back of the car that was afire was thrown in the street and firemen extinguished the fire there.

A garage at the John Keller residence, 1350 S. Main, was reported on fire at 9 p.m. Firemen estimated damage to the building at $25.

Foul play is suspected and an investigation is being made to determine the cause of the fire.

BROWN RITES IN CITY SUNDAY

Funeral services for Edward J. Brown of Chapin were held Sunday afternoon at Williamson Funeral Home with Pastor Marvin Ramthun of St. Paul's Lutheran church of Chapin officiating. Ruth Rexroat was organist.

Caring for flowers were Mrs. Lester Huffines, Mrs. Merle Lair, Mrs. Archie Bower and Mrs. George Bower.

Palbearers were William Taylor, Don Reining, Dr. Glen Gross, David Wild, Paul Marshall and Don Zumwalt.

Interment was in the Chapin cemetery.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

Busy Court Docket Monday Morning

A rural Jacksonville young man was denied probation and ordered to spend five days in the county jail on his plea of guilty to driving while under the influence of alcohol.

Alvin L. Angelo, 19, of Route 2 had entered a plea of guilty to the charge earlier. He was sentenced by Associate Circuit Judge John B. Wright.

Morris Winner, 47, of 429 E. Douglas made a brief appearance in magistrate division of circuit court and asked that he be allowed to consult with an attorney. The cases of unlawful use of a weapon and driving while under the influence of alcohol were continued to Thursday. He was released from the county jail under $1,000 bond. He was arrested Saturday as a result of a disturbance at the VFW Club.

Magistrate Paul Fenstermaker announced a finding of innocent in the case of Harold Schroeder, 56, of Meredosia, charged March 29 with driving under the influence of alcohol. Schroeder pleaded innocent to the charge and evidence on the incident was heard by the court a week earlier. The decision was not announced until Monday morning.

Thomas Brogdon, 1 Carter Drive, entered a plea of guilty to criminal damage to property and was fined $25 and $22.40 court costs and ordered to make restitution. He was charged after an incident at the Alps Tavern south of Jacksonville early Sunday morning.

Bruce Davis, 17, of 1816 Plum was fined $100 and $10 costs after being found guilty by the court on a charge of attempting to elude a police officer. He was charged by city police following a chase April 19.

Lyle Knox, 20, of Route 1 was fined $25 and $10 costs on his plea of guilty to illegal consumption of liquor. Knox was arrested several days ago.

Joseph Hanke, 20, of 1704 Mound was fined $50 and $10 costs on his plea of guilty to speeding. He was charged with running 100 miles per hour.

Danny Thady, 19, of Murrayville was fined $75 and $10 costs on his plea of guilty to attempting to elude a police officer.

CYCLIST INJURED
EARLY MONDAY
Charles F. Virgin, 23, of 1258 S. East was injured about midnight Sunday when his motorcycle "slid out from under him" at East Chambers and Hardin avenue. City police said Virgin was treated later at Norris hospital.

AMVETS NOMINATE
NEW OFFICERS
Jacksonville Amvet Post met in regular session April 28 at the Amvet Home with Commander Edward Witham presiding.

Minutes of the previous Post meeting and Executive Committee meeting were approved as read by adjutant Fred Daniels. The semi-monthly financial report as made by finance officer John Beadles was approved and numerous committee reports were made.

It was announced that Jacksonville Amvet Post and Auxiliary will host the Third Division meeting to be held in Jacksonville at the Amvet Home on May 17 at 2 p.m. Following the business session, supper will be served.

Nominations of Post Officers for the ensuing year was held with the following candidates being nominated: Shirley M. Weems for commander; Floyd Robson for sr. vice commander; C. P. Siegfried for adjutant John P. Beadles for finance officer; H. W. Dodsworth for judge advocate; and Howard Dykshorn for provost marshal.

In addition to the Post Officers candidates being nominated, there were two candidates, Charles Moore and Zeke Beranek, nominated for the two House Committee members to serve for a two-year term. Also there were three candidates, Lloyd Byers, James Cockerill and Joseph Racilla, nominated for the two House Committee members to serve for one-year terms.

Nominations will be re-opened at the next regular Post meeting to be held May 12 preceding the election of officers.

At the close of the meeting, closing prayer was given by the chaplain, colors retrieved and meeting adjourned. A social hour was spent jointly with the Auxiliary and refreshments were served.

HOUSING CORPORATION TO MEET WEDNESDAY

Anyone interested in the not-for-profit housing corporation is invited to attend a meeting to be held Wednesday, May 6th, 8 p.m. at the Grace Methodist church.

Business — Market Wrapup

Business Mirror

By JOHN CUNNIFF
NEW YORK (AP) — Here's a suggestion for companies besieged with consumer complaints about poor quality and service: set up an employee suggestion system.

Not only might this device afford you the brain power and imagination of your workers—at a low cost, incidentally—but quite likely it could improve worker morale by giving employees a sense of participation.

That is the formula suggested by the National Association of Suggestion Systems, which now numbers 1,400 member corporations compared with 1,100 in 1960 and one in 1895.

Most systems have come a long way from the old suggestion box, which as likely as not became stuffed with ludicrous and sometimes insulting proposals. Most systems today are highly structured, sophisticated and profitable.

At International Business Machines last year, Robert Wood and John O'Donnell, tool and die makers at a Kingston, N.Y., plant, won a total of $64,776 for just one suggestion.

They proposed and developed a simplified jig that enabled workers to more quickly and efficiently thread with wire the tiny magnetic memory cores for computers.

The payment, computed to equal 20 per cent of the first year's net savings on labor and materials, was last year's record high payment by any NASS member. Worldwide, IBM paid $3.7 million for suggestions in 1969.

It was 75 years ago, NASS says, that National Cash Register set up what is claimed to be this country's first system. The idea really never took hold in a big way, however, until World War II, when boxes sprouted in defense plants.

Following the war, the concept again seemed to fall from favor, but Bill Englehaup, executive director of the Chicago-based NASS, claims that suggestion systems again are growing in number and popularity.

He lists among the reasons: the need to cut costs as inflation erodes profits; the rising level of customer complaints; the desire of companies to devise methods for dealing with service problems; the relatively new problems of environmental pollution.

Englehaup claims that hospitals are among the most recent of institutions to benefit from suggestion systems, partially due to three NASS seminars for hospital administrators held this year in Atlanta, San Francisco and Chicago.

Hospitals, of course, are having serious problems of cost control. Medical costs are perhaps the fastest rising of any cost of living category and some administrators have frantically and unsuccessfully sought solutions.

For too many years, one professional critic maintains, medical institutions have been victimized by "bossism" of doctors and nurses. Employee ideas, intentionally or not, were sometimes smothered or deemed too unprofessional.

A notable example of the changing attitude involved a physical therapist aide at Children's Hospital, Pittsburgh, who suggested that common table salt could be substituted for an expensive salt tablet in a saline solution for burn patients.

The suggestion, scoffed at when first received, was investigated later and found to be worthwhile. The estimated first-year savings of $10,000 resulted in a $2,000 award to the employee.

Prudent Investors Use Dollar-Averaging

By CARLTON SMITH and RICHARD PUTNAM PRATT
If you've got any faith left in the stock market after what has been happening for the past 18 months, this just might be the time to consider putting your money where your mind is.

It is just possible that the market may have reached the bottom of its long slide. If it has, now is the time to buy in, before it begins its climb back to prosperity.

Of course, the current doldrums may not be the bottom at all, but just a plateau. In that case, perhaps you shouldn't plunge after all.

In truth, most investors are plagued with exactly these kinds of doubts. Not just right now, but all the time. Even the acknowledged experts are leery indeed of definite predictions.

But before you throw up your hands, you ought to know that there is an investing technique that doesn't require you to predict market bottoms and price trends. In fact, the method thrives on market movement.

The system is called "dollar cost averaging."

Dollar cost averaging (or dollar-averaging, as it is usually known) consists of investing a specific amount of money in the same stock at regular intervals, no matter what the price fluctuation.

To gain the full benefit of this method, you must stick with it for a fair period of time, preferably several years. It works to your advantage because when share prices are low, your money buys more shares, thus reducing your cost-per-share.

If you're both dubious and confused, let's take a look at a real-life example cited by Louis Engel in his book "How to Buy Stocks."

He shows how the same amount of money, invested in two different patterns, would have produced radically different end results.

Engel chose RCA stock, and the years 1929-1961 for the experiment. In 1929, he writes, a man with $16,500 to invest would have been able to purchase 44 shares of RCA at the then-current price.

Over the years, thanks to stock splits, these shares would have multiplied to 228 by 1960. In addition, the shares would have earned about $4,000 in dividend payments.

But in 1961, with RCA selling at about 58, the investor would barely have recovered his original investment, even counting the dividends.

In contrast, Engel notes, the same sum invested in the same stock would have provided a far different result if the investor had dollar-averaged faithfully.

This would have meant investing $500 annually in RCA stock for the 33 years. Under this plan, the purchaser would have owned 1,643 shares by 1961, and they'd have been worth $105,316.

Using this scheme, the dividend income alone would have been $26,642, or more than the original investment.

Before you decide to emulate Engel's classic example, remember that it takes courage. Dollar-averagers are able to run up records like that only if they've got the guts to keep right on buying when the price of the stock is dropping.

If you are going to lose heart at the first sign of bad news, dollar-averaging will never work for you.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — The impact of the U.S. involvement in Cambodia was blamed for sharp declines in the stock market, which suffered its worst setback Monday since President John F. Kennedy was assassinated.

"This new development begins to raise the question of whether inflation can be halted," one analyst said of the market's response to President Nixon's Thursday night speech on Cambodia and the Indochina situation.

The analyst said statements Monday by the Russians and Chinese condemning the U.S. action "blunted the ability of the market to rally," adding that the immediate outlook would be for the market to work lower.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials closed down 19.07 at 714.56, near the level it hit on Nov. 22, 1963, when Kennedy was killed. The Dow dropped 21.16 to 711.49 that day.

Some brokers noted, however, that trading volume was quite low considering the sharp declines.

Monday was the first day the New York Stock Exchange and American Stock Exchange resumed the normal 5 1/2-hour trading session. The two exchanges had been conducting shortened trading sessions since June 1968 because of operational problems connected with the heavy volume of transactions, most recently they had been operating 5 hours a day, closing at 3 p.m., but went back to the normal 3:30 p.m. Monday.

Turnover on the New York Stock Exchange reached 11.44 million shares Monday compared with 8.29 million shares Friday. Monday's volume on the New York Stock Exchange was 3.45 million shares compared with 1.93 million Friday.

Declining issues outnumbered advances 1,228 to 188 among the 1,594 stocks traded on the New York Stock Exchange. The Big Board recorded 397 new lows for the year and 4 new highs.

Fifty-eight blocks of 10,000 or more shares crossed the Big Board ticker tape Monday, compared with 30 Friday. The largest block was 224,000 shares of Sperry Rand at 24 1/2, down 3/4.

Telex was the volume leader on the Big Board, closing down 2 1/4 at 17 1/2 on turnover of 567,900 shares. All of the 20 most-active issues declined.

The American Stock Exchange price change index was off .34 to 21.65, the lowest it has been since March 5, 1968, when it closed at 21.58. Declines outnumbered advances 752 to 168 among the 1,072 stocks traded on the Amex.

Wheat Futures Lead Decline

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat futures declined 2 1/4 cents a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade Monday and other grain futures and soybeans also closed on a weak tone.

Trade was mixed and volume appeared to have been fairly light.

Liquidation in the wheat pit was active from the opening bell and as prices eased stop loss selling was much evident. Some trade sources expressed belief the selling was touched off by reports that the winter wheat crop is in excellent condition and that the yield from five of the larger producing states could be greater than estimated some 60 days ago.

At the close, wheat was 1 1/2 to 2 1/4 cents a bushel lower, May 1.49 1/2; corn was 1/4 to 3/4 lower, May 1.28 1/4; oats were 1/4 lower to 3/4 higher, May 65 1/2 cents; rye was 3/4 lower to 2 cents higher, May 1.10; and soybeans were 3/4 to 1 1/4 cents lower, May 2.64 1/4.

Water, Sewage Big Problem In Jersey Co.

JERSEYVILLE — The Jerseyville Industrial Park Project has been stymied principally over the question of a supply of water and sewer facilities to the area by the city.

A group composed of city commissioner Joseph Susnig, city attorney Phil Moore and Mrs. Mary Heitzig, Jerseyville Industrial Park director, visited the office of the Economic Development Administration in Duluth, Minn., last week and were told that they had many requests for grants where the entire community was united behind industrial development and they did not feel they wanted to get in the middle of the conflict going on in Jerseyville.

The EDC was slated to furnish a grant of $100,000 for the project and the city was to match it with an additional $100,000. Mayor Dolan stated it was his opinion the city should not provide $100,000 for something to which they would have no title and over which they would have no control.

The City Council had formerly approved the project. The controversy seems to be over construction of a hi-rise tower to the area. The Mayor stated in an open letter he would be in favor of extending a four- or six-inch water line and a sewer line to the property line of the park immediately with approval of the Water and Sewer Department of the city but objected to building a hi-rise tower.

The Roper Plastics plant now operating in the Industrial Park employs about 15 persons. They are now using water from two wells on the property. Joe Santonoceto, manager of the plant, reports it was necessary to dismantle some of the machinery to clean out the dirt and sand that had accumulated from the temporary water arrangements.

Roper Plastics had planned expansion that will call for additional employees but this cannot be done unless the city supplies adequate water and sewer facilities. Mr. Roper has indicated also that the expansion program is a necessity if their plant is to remain in operation here, and the assurance of adequate water available was a factor in the Roper decision to locate here.

According to engineers, the hi-rise water tower is necessary to supply residual pressure for operation of sprinkler systems in the manufacturing plants of today. Without sprinkler systems, manufacturers experience exorbitant insurance rates and come under fire from the State of Illinois.

The Industrial Corporation, with financial help from Jerseyville and area residents, has

HERE'S ARTIST WHO CAN STOMACH HIS OWN WORK

ASPEN, Colo. — Some people gaze at their navels to achieve tranquility, but Paul Soldner puts his belly button to work.

The potter and teacher has made a plaster of Paris cast of his navel and stamps the signature into the bottom of his pots.

Soldner will appear on the special, "With These Hands: The Rebirth of the American Craftsman," to be televised on May 8 which will explore the life and work of eight American artists.

"One day I thought, 'Why do you always stamp clay?' It's an identification, that's all."

"So why not use something that's very personally yours, in his case, my belly button?"

Soldner does not limit his signatures to navels. He also uses an animal bone and a horse's tooth.

This is Oldsmobile's year at Indy.

Isn't it your year for an Olds?

The knowing folks at Indy just named Olds 4-4-2 official pace car for this year's 500.

For good reason. Olds is not only an excellent performer, it's a winner in looks and ride as well.

The fact is, every 1970 Olds is a pacesetter. And it goes far deeper than performance.

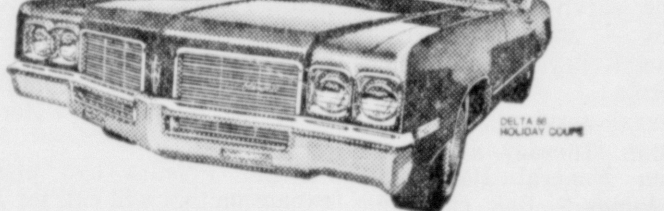

their reach. A mistaken notion that might keep you in an ordinary car, instead of an Olds.

The truth of the matter is that many Olds models are priced right down with the low-price names.

Now that you have the facts, isn't this your year to go Oldsmobile? You can probably do so for no more than what you've been paying. See your nearest Olds dealer!

In fact, it's this quality that leads many people to believe that Olds is priced out of your reach.

HELP REQUIRED IN PONY LEAGUE

Something of an emergency concerning youth baseball has come to the front in Jacksonville, and drastic results may develop unless interested parties take action immediately.

Pony League Baseball, for boys 13 and 14 years of age, has long been a summertime institution in Jacksonville, handled very ably by the local YMCA.

Evidently due to a financial pinch of major proportions, the local YMCA this year announced that boys participating in the Pony League program would be required to have a 'Y' membership. Only 13 boys turned in entry blanks, and the YMCA last weekend announced that it would be unable to conduct this year's Pony League.

FOLLOWING THAT development, a few interested adults, led by Pony League president Gale Waltrip, have initiated plans to organize an independent Pony League along the same lines as annually held by the 'Y.'

All those interested, from players, parents, potential coaches and sponsors, are urged to attend an organizational meeting this Wednesday evening at 7:30 at the local Knights of Columbus Hall. It is imperative that a sufficient show of interest be in evidence at the meeting so that plans may progress.

What it all amounts to, if you want to take an alarmist viewpoint, is that if sufficient interest and man-hour and financial support is not shown, the Pony League baseball program here could very well die, and perhaps other baseball programs as well.

HERE 'N' THERE: One more discrepancy in major league baseball records will be forthcoming now that most ball parks are going to the artificial surfaces. It has been common knowledge for a number of years that records really aren't that accurate when you consider that the baseball has changed from the dead-to-live variety at least twice, equipment and facilities have changed drastically through the years and even the competition has varied in the various eras. Now you will be seeing more of the cheap hits that 'take off' on the speedy artificial surfaces and get through the infield and more extra base hits. All of which means that one can't really compare records of different eras and expect them to be accurate.

WE TRULY must be living in a more permissive era. Ted Williams once made an obscene gesture while rounding the bases in Boston and was promptly fined to the tune of $5,000. Last weekend Leo Durocher did the same, repeatedly and with the television cameras trained on him, and was charged a paltry $200. WE HAVE to think that the anti-fraternization rule in baseball is something of a farce. The rule states that players on opposing teams may not 'fraternize' in view of the fans. The Cardinals' Jose Cardenal was recently plucked $50 for the same. We can't believe that baseball fans are so naive that they don't realize opposing players are often friends and that there is anything wrong with seeing opponents talking to each other.

EX-CARDINAL broadcaster Harry Caray, in a recent interview before a game in Chicago was asked how he liked it in Oakland. "It's like living in Siberia," commented Harry, never one to mince words.

LOCAL REMINDERS: Auto racing will open in Jacksonville Saturday night with Late Model and Fender Bender classes opening the season at the Jacksonville Speedway. St. Louis Football Cardinal quarterback Jim Hart will be the guest speaker at the Routh High school all-sports banquet Thursday, and we assume some tickets are still available.

ONE OF SPORTS' most frustrating moments—commercial and station breaks during hot hockey action on television, brief as they are. Hockey and soccer are the only televised sports, with auto racing a possible exception, where breaks in the action are not provided by the mere rules of the game.

IN ANSWER to a recent question, the Indianapolis 500 has been stopped short of completion only three times since 1911: 1916, 1926 and 1950.

Inspired Knicks Tip Lakers 107-100

NEW YORK (AP) — The inspired New York Knicks, playing from late in the first quarter without center Willis Reed, caught and passed the Los Angeles Lakers for a stirring 107-

100 victory Monday night and a 3-2 game lead in their battle for the National Basketball Association title.

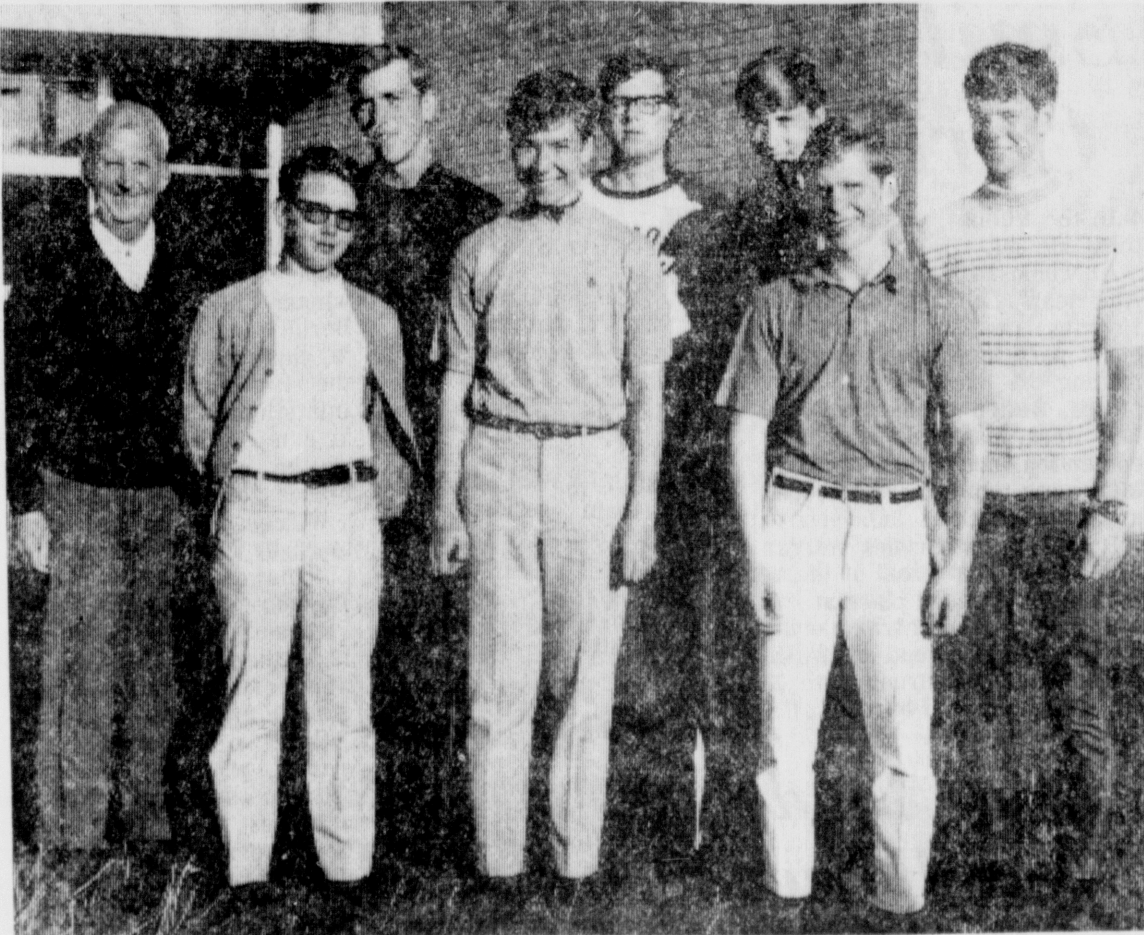

Behind from the opening basket and seemingly dead when Reed went out with a bruised hip and Los Angeles ahead 25-15 with 3:56 left in the opening period, the Knicks never gave up and finally caught up at 37-all on Bill Bradley's basket.

After two more deadlocks, Bradley again hit with 5:17 to play for a 93-91 edge and the Knicks were ahead to stay.

Reserve Dave Stallworth, a 6-foot-7 forward who scored 10 points in the final quarter working against 7-foot-2 Wilt Chamberlain, added another basket 39 seconds later to make it 95-91.

Then Cazzie Russell, another hero off the bench, took over with New York's next six points for a 101-94 lead and the Lakers never climbed closer than five again.

Jacks Tie For Loop Golf Title

Jacksonville High school and Decatur MacArthur continued their domination of the Capital Conference Golf Tournament Monday by deadlocking for the 1978 title at the Jacksonville Country Club.

The two teams totaled 321 strokes to continue as the only schools in the conference to ever take the top spot in the meet. Jacksonville won the crown in 1964-65-66-67, with MacArthur sweeping the top spot the last two years.

Following the top two outfits, with the low four scorers counting in the team scores, were Champaign Centennial 342, Springfield Griffin 345, Springfield Lanphier 349, Springfield Southeast 350 and Decatur Eisenhower 361.

Southeast's Ed Mabie captured medalist honors with a 40-35-75 over par 36-36-72 layout, followed by Terry Chamberland of MacArthur with a 76.

Jacksonville's Jim Dowland was third among individuals with a 38-39-77, with MacArthur's Steve Moore following with a 77.

JHS's J. D. Evans tied for fifth with 38-42-80, with teammate Mike Way turning in a 43-38-81 for eighth spot.

Jim Keating was the fourth low Crimson golfer with a 41-42-83, sinking a clutch five-foot putt on the final hole to allow the deadlock with MacArthur.

Other Jacksonville scores were Gary Hickey 41-44-85, Bill Kline 37-49-85 and Gary Hutchison 41-45-86.

RECORD 529 CANOES IN MID-AMERICAN

AURORA, Ill. (AP) — A record field of 529 canoes participated in the 10th annual Mid-American Canoe Race on the Fox River Sunday.

The light craft bucked headwinds of about 30 miles an hour along the 22-mile stretch from South Elgin to Aurora. At dams along the route the canoers had to paddle to the shore, portage their boats and relaunch below the dams.

The winning men's team, Bill Schulte of Kirkwood, Mo., and Ted Holbrook of Pine Ridge, Ky., covered the course in 2 hours, 43 minutes, 12 seconds.

HOUSTON (AP) — Knuckleballer Jim Bouton stopped Chicago on six hits and scored two runs Monday night, pacing the Houston Astros to a 7-2 victory that extended the Cubs' losing string to four games.

The Astros broke a 1-1 deadlock with two runs in the third inning and Bouton made them stand up for his second victory in four decisions.

Bouton was hit by a Bill Hands pitch to start the third inning uprising. Joe Morgan walked, Norm Miller singled to score Bouton with the go-ahead run and Jim Wynn's sacrifice fly delivered another tally.

Nash, Cepeda Spark Atlanta To 5-3 Victory

ATLANTA (AP) — Pitcher Jim Nash and Orlando Cepeda hit home runs Monday night as the streaking Atlanta Braves beat Pittsburgh 5-3 for their seventh straight victory.

Nash, 3-1 was touched for 10 singles before giving way to reliever Bob Priddy in the seventh when the Pirates scored their final run on three hits, the last by Willie Stargell.

Nash's homer, his first of the year and third in the majors, cleared the left field fence in the fourth. Cepeda's sixth homer of the season went into the left field stands in the fifth and ended his 0-for-14 slump.

WINTERS SPARKLES IN SOFTBALL PAIR ROODHOUSE — Lyle Winters led the way in both games as the Roodhouse Merchants softball team opened its season with a 6-4 and 11-3 twin-bill sweep over Loami Sunday evening.

Winters was two-for-three at the plate and drove in two runs in each game, pitching the nightcap victory. Bob Camden had a triple for Roodhouse and Bob Speaks a three-bagger for Loami in the finale.

1-Day Moratorium In Baseball Likely

CHICAGO (AP) — A one-day baseball moratorium rather than a full-blown strike is likely if the major league owners don't sweeten their latest contract offer to the Major League Baseball Players Association, the Chicago Today newspaper said Monday.

Baseball writer John Hillyer said he was told by one player representative — who preferred to remain anonymous — that the day for a moratorium would come when there is a nationally televised game.

The television people, the player said, "already have been told about it. We would give the owners three or four days notice, hoping to get some concessions out of them in the meantime so we wouldn't have to strike."

"The TV people, of course, would tell the owners they couldn't pay them for that game if it wasn't played."

Hillyer said Marvin Miller, the association's executive director, had received the owners' proposal Friday and each club is expected to vote it sometime this week.

Hillyer said the proposal cannot be approved by the players unless approval is given to each of its items. He listed these as the ones objected to most:

Scheduling — The owners propose to continue playing 162 games a year. The players are pretty well united against this.

Termination pay — Owners agree to pay a player 45 days worth of salary if he is released during the season. But if he is released in spring training, he would receive nothing.

League playoff pools — Owners propose to raise the players' share from 50 to 60 per cent. Many players believe this is not enough.

Meal money — The owners propose raising it from $15 to $16 a day for this season, $17 in 1971 and $17 plus a cost-of-living increase in 1972.

Hillyer said that among owners' offers that stand some chance of approval are:

Minimum salary — It's $11,000 now and the owners would boost it to $12,000 immediately, $12,750 next year and $13,500 in 1972.

Maximum salary cut — It's 25 per cent now and the owners would lower it to 20 per cent.

Hillyer said the reserve clause which Curt Flood currently is fighting in the courts, is not mentioned in the owners' proposal.

In New York, Miller had no comment on the reports of a moratorium but confirmed that the owners had submitted a 34-page written proposal to him which he was forwarding to the players without any recommendation.

Judge Signs Order To Bar Merger

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal judge signed a preliminary injunction order Monday barring a merger of the two professional basketball leagues.

The order, which will be in effect until trial of a suit by the player representatives of all National Basketball Association teams, was signed by Judge Charles H. Tenney of U.S. District Court.

The preliminary injunction superseded a temporary restraining order granted last month by Judge Lloyd F. McMahon of U.S. District Court.

McMahon ruled, in granting the temporary restraining order, that a merger of the NBA and the three-year-old American Basketball Association raised "serious questions" of legality under the Sherman Antitrust Act.

He said combining the leagues would eliminate competition for player talent at a time when some athletes who are among the defendants already have signed contracts to play with a rival league.

Softball Entry Deadline Nears

Teams interested in playing in the Jacksonville YMCA softball leagues have until this Wednesday, May 6, to place their entries.

As of this date, the Service Club Slo-Pitch League is filled with seven entries: Ambucs, Amvets, Elks, Kiwanis, Jaycees, Lions, and Rotary. The Open Slo-Pitch League has six entries with Byers Brothers, Bob's Auto Beauty, Crown Finance, Capitol Records, VFW, and Virginia.

The Fast Pitch League has three entries with Ashland, Illinois Road Contractors, and Roodhouse. Play for all leagues is scheduled to start the week of May 18 with games being played at Nichols Park. In case the Slo-Pitch Divisions become overfilled, another league will be organized with play being held at the State Hospital field on Tuesday evenings.

Bowman Will Not Change Strategy

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Scotty Bowman, coach of the St. Louis Blues, says his grand strategy to stop Bobby Orr will remain in effect for Tuesday night's second game in the best-of-seven National Hockey League Stanley Cup finals against Boston.

and Bruin Coach Harry Sinden isn't complaining about it one bit.

"I'd like to thank Scotty," said Sinden. "This is the first time in four years I've been able to keep Bobby back in our end."

Bowman's strategy in Sunday's opener was to assign one man to shadow Orr wherever Boston's superstar defenseman went on the ice. Most of the time, the job went to Jim Roberts but Terry Crisp, Tim Ecclestone and Bill McCreary also had turns at it.

"I don't think we have a chance at all against Boston," said Bowman. "Unless we stop Orr. We'll rise or fall on this strategy."

The Blues fell on it Sunday. They limited Orr to a single assist but lost the hockey game 6-1.

The Bruins plan no counter strategy to combat the shadowing.

"We're not going to do a thing about it," said Sinden after sending Boston through a light skate at the Arena Monday.

"Why change things now—6-1 is a pretty good reason not to."

Orr, who became the first defenseman in history to win the scoring title by accumulating 120 points this season, said, "I expected to be watched, but not like that. I could have gone out to lunch for all the chance I had to get into the play. I just stayed out of things."

Havana Topples Beardstown 6-2

BEARDSTOWN — Havana pounded out 11 hits for a 6-2 Spoon River Conference victory that stopped a seven-game Beardstown winning streak Monday afternoon.

Stevens limited the losers, now 8-3 overall and 5-2 in league play, to two singles, fanning three and walking seven.

Grover was three-for-five and Boggs two-for-four at the plate for Havana, now 5-0 atop the Spoon River standings.

Shannon Awaits Green Light

MIKE SHANNON

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Third baseman Mike Shannon of the St. Louis Cardinals is being allowed to exert himself under close supervision this week to set the stage for tests that will determine whether he is recovering from a rare kidney disorder, glomerulo nephritis.

The condition was discovered through physical examinations at spring training camp and he was returned to St. Louis for hospitalization and tests.

The 30-year-old Redbird spent one month in Jewish Hospital and has been treated at home for the past month.

Shannon worked out Sunday and Monday under the scrutiny of manager Red Schoendienst and coaches Dick Sisler, George Kissell and Bob Millikin.

After one more session Tuesday, Shannon will undergo further tests to determine his condition.

"I'm ready to go. All they have to do is give me the green light," Shannon said.

The home town boy said he never felt badly and there was no indication he was suffering from the kidney disorder.

Shannon started his first workout with calisthenics and some running and fielding practice. Then he moved to the batting cage.

When the New York Mets beat the Atlanta Braves in the National League playoff, the three games drew a total of 153,587 fans.

NEW YORK (NEA) — The stock car Pete Hamilton drives is not the classic, souped-up rattletrap with metal sun visor, haughty hind end and plume of steam arising from the radiator.

His is a 1970 Plymouth Road Runner Superbird, highly precisioned, one of the swiftest racing cars in the world and an instrument from which, when he climbs in, he knows he may not climb out.

"There are very few sports in which someone can see a man put his life on the line," said Hamilton. "It's akin to bullfighting."

"Auto racing scares people. That's one reason they like it. When 40 race cars start a race, with engines turning 7,000 rpm, the ground vibrates from the roaring cars and a lot of dust and grit and paper are kicked up and almost engulf the cars. It's a thrilling thing. I've seen people in the crowd shudder and turn their faces away."

Hamilton, 27, light-boned and light-browed, won the Daytona 500 this February in a tuck-and-nip finish the last few laps with veteran driver David Pearson. Hamilton, 1968 NASCAR Rookie of the Year, was driving his first factory car and the first prepared by the prestigious Petty family.

At Daytona last year, a young man named Don MacTavish, one of Hamilton's best friends among drivers, was killed in a preliminary race.

"Everything is fine when you win," said Hamilton. "Winning is the only thing that makes you for a lot of bad times, and you—everyone—lose more than you win. What happened to Don could happen to me. It really could. But the risk is nothing taking. I mean, there is nothing, nothing more satisfying than winning a race."

"It's also important to know there are only 30 guys in the whole country capable of doing something like that, winning a big race in which you average 185 to 187 miles an hour over about five hours. Well, maybe not capable but let me say in a position to do it—to have the desire, or the opportunity."

Hamilton hit upon what he thought might first be a coincidence, later felt was probably an insight into racing drivers.

"We all enjoy gambling," he said. "We play poker a lot. Every top driver I know likes to play and is good at it. None of us play bridge. Too sophisticated. The guys who drive are pretty much flat-out individuals."

Stock car racing resembles, at times, the national pastime of the South. Hamilton, then, came to it from the tailgate section of the nation—New England (Newton, Mass.) His father was a dean at Northeastern University and Pete was a mechanical engineering major at the University of Maine until he was 19 and "kinda got this feeling in my gut that I wanted to race." Before this, he was the drummer in his own band and a drag-stripper at other times.

In a jalopy in his first race in 1963, he went three laps before ending up on the roof on the backstretch and, he recalls, "hanging from a passenger car seat belt and wondering if all those cars behind me were going to miss me."

A race car driver must have great concentration because he passes through the same scenery hundreds of times in a race. It is not advisable to day-dream when going nearly 200 miles an hour and running the accelerator flat on the floor for hours. A stiff muscle, a cramp in the neck, a second's loss of fixed concentration could end in disaster. And after every race Hamilton climbs out of the car and knows he has been lucky.

"I don't want to say you're cheating The Man," said Hamilton, "but it's not easy to run at those speeds."

Aaron To Challenge Ruth's Homer Mark

By FRANK ECK

AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

When you get Hank Aaron alone and he talks about hitting 554, and tells you how thankful he is for his 16 injury-free years in the major leagues you get the feeling this is the man who someday will break Babe Ruth's record of 714 home runs.

Hank, or Bad Henry to pitchers who try to get him out, turned 36 last Feb. 5 and the way he takes care of his body makes you feel he'll be around another four years.

If he does he will have played until he is 40, the age at which Ruth hit the last of his home runs.

No. 44, a certain Hall of Famer five years after he retires, is more enthusiastic about baseball than you are led to believe. He is serious all the time and even after he trots around the bases after a home run he hides his smile.

We'll let Bad Henry take it from here because when the season opened he had 554 home runs and needed only 44 hits to join the 3,000-hit club. So here are the exact words of Bad Henry, the leading lady for the Atlanta Braves: "A lot of people have put much emphasis on a player getting 3,000 base hits in the major leagues. I guess lately I've joined the group because 3,000 hits means so much."

"The way I started I hope that 3,000th hit is coming up soon. At the start of the season I needed only 44 hits to reach that pleasant plateau."

"I've been very fortunate and lucky, I would add, in that I have never suffered any major injuries in my 16 previous seasons with the Braves, in Milwaukee or in Atlanta. It means so much when you can get out and play every day."

"Some people say I have a good shot at Babe Ruth's record of 714 home runs. That's a lot of homers and I've always admired the Babe's great record. I'm 36 while Babe played until he was 40 and I may have to play a long time to ever get that many. I started this spring with 554.

"Today we play 162 games a season. I think when the Babe played he had a 154-game season. The structure of the game has changed so much."

"We play a game in Atlanta one day and then fly to the coast to play Los Angeles. This has to take something out of a baseball player's career."

"But anytime someone hits 714 home runs that's a lot of home runs and I don't have anything but admiration for Babe Ruth."

"I hit a lot of home runs without going for them. In my early career I went for the base hits simply because we had that type of ball club. We had Ed Mathews, Joe Adcock and people like that who were averaging 35 to 40 home runs a season. It was my job in those days just to try to get on base and score runs ahead of those fellows."

"Sure we move the clock back in California but coming back east we move it ahead and our eating habits change."

All Henry Aaron needs to match Babe Ruth's record is 40 home runs a season for the next four years. Hank hit 44 last season and in Atlanta's first 14 games this spring he put five into the seats. He's giving it his best shot when the occasion permits.

Elks Club Takes Volleyball Meet

The Jacksonville Elks Club emerged victorious in the YMCA's Third Annual Service Club Volleyball Tournament held at the YMCA last week. Six teams competed in the event which was set up on a Round Robin basis with every team playing each of the other teams. Although pushed to the limit in three out of five matches, the Elks powered their way through to a perfect record of five wins and no defeats. Elks No. 1 defeated Jaycee No. 2, 14-12; Jaycee No. 1, 18-5; Rotary, 15-13; Elks No. 2, 19-8; and Kiwanis, 16-14. Members of the Elks No. 1 team were Fred Witther, Bud Walker, Dick Barnes, Jerry Frey and Roger Cannell.

Finishing in second place was Rotary with a 4-1 record. Other team positions were Jaycee No. 2 with 3-2, Jaycee No. 1, 2-3, Elks No. 2 with a 1-4 and Kiwanis with 0-5.

The Elks will now display the team plaque for this next year. Previous winners were Rotary in 1968 and Jaycee in 1969.

Joe Louis, the Brown Bomber, scored 10 one-round knockouts during his pugilistic career.

Fortune Smiles On Rico Carty

NEW YORK (AP) — Fortune finally is smiling on Rico Carty, the tough-luck kid of the Atlanta Braves who has taken over as the top hitter in the major leagues.

Carty's average, through Sunday's games, was a robust .435, giving him a three-point edge over Tony Perez of Cincinnati who still dominated the home run and runs batted in competition in both leagues.

A year ago Carty was trying to make a comeback after missing the entire season of 1968 after he was stricken with tuberculosis and spent 163 days in the hospital.

Carty suffered a shoulder separation in the final days of the 1969 training season and went on the disabled list. He didn't go to bat until May 2 and went out again when he dislocated the shoulder again May 18 and a third time June 29. Altogether he missed 58 games.

When the Braves needed Carty the most in their stretch drive to the National League West title he came through with a .390 September as the Braves won 20 of their last 27 games. Although he hit .300 in the playoff with New York, the Braves were eliminated in three straight games.

Carty has been ripping the ball this spring with power. When people said he was a streak hitter, the big fellow from the Dominican Republic shook his head and said, "No, just a lucky hitter. I'd rather be lucky than good."

Lucky or good, it matters not, because Carty clipped enemy pitching for nine hits in 20 at bats during the past week to pass Perez who slid down 20 points from .452 to .432 with five hits, including his 10th home run, in 15 at bats. Perez' 10th home run, in April, incidentally, tied the major league record set last year by Frank Robinson of Baltimore.

200 Sports Cars Expected In 1st Midwest Races

CLAYTON, Mo. — A field of 200 racing sports cars and drivers is expected for the first National Point Championship Races to be held in the Midwest Division of the Sports Car Club of America, George "Butch" Welsh, race general chairman has announced.

The two day event, titled the Falstaff Midwest Classic, is sanctioned by the St. Louis and Southern Illinois Regions of the SCCA. The event will be held Saturday and Sunday, May 23 and 24, at Mid-America Raceways located off Interstate 70, just west of Wentzville, Mo. and 35 miles from St. Louis.

Welsh reported that the race will be the first in the season's schedule of sanctioned SCCA races for points leading to national championships in the various sports racing car classes. A full field in all four categories; formula, sedan, production and sports racing, is expected for both days with a minimum of eight races. Entries will come from all parts of the United States to race on the 2.86 mile, twisting, hilly asphalt course.

Activities begin each day at 9:00 a.m. with practice and national qualifying laps. Races over the course which has ten corners and rapid changes in elevation, will begin at 1:00 p.m. each day.

Admission is $5.00 daily and includes free parking. Overnight camping will be permitted in the track's campground on Saturday night.

Falstaff Brewing Corporation is supporting the event as part of its nation-wide program in the promotion of automobile racing.

Former Umpire Drummond Dies

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — An autopsy showed Monday that former major league baseball umpire Cal Drummond died because of a decreased blood supply to an area of the brain which required surgery after he was knocked unconscious last year by a foul tip.

Drummond, 52, died Sunday after collapsing Saturday night while officiating at an American Association game here between Iowa and Tulsa.

Drummond's body was flown from here Monday to Greenwood, S.C. His home was at Ninety Six, S.C.

The autopsy revealed Drummond died of a cerebral infarct—a decreased blood supply—in the area of the brain which was injured.

Drummond was in his 10th American League season when the foul tip hit his head and left him unconscious for about two weeks.

After surgery, Drummond had spent his time recuperating until joining the American Association staff to work his first game here last Friday night, with the Phillies, climbed up to third at .391.

A wholesale shuffle in the American League finds Gail Hopkins, the Chicago White Sox's part time first baseman, leading the pack at .383. Jerry Moses, Boston catcher who led last week, has dropped out of contention, and Brant Aleya of Minnesota tumbled from second at .390 to eighth at .349.

Robinson, the Orioles veteran who always is a threat at the title, slid into second place at .377 with eight hits in 17 trips during the week. Ed Stroud of Washington came on strong with 12 hits and wound up third at .371.

Latins Find Ready Home In Baseball

By FRANK ECK

AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

Ninety-three Latin baseball players were on major league rosters this spring and there's more on the way.

Thirty-eight Latin players were signed to contracts by organized baseball this spring. Twenty-five of them are from South America.

How come?

"Well, when you sign a free agent in this country out of high school or college he wants $60,000 just to sign," said a knowledgeable baseball man. "In South America, where people haven't got as much as we have, a youngster with a chance to play in the big leagues will sign for a $1,500 bonus."

In other words baseball is expanding by cutting down?

"That's right," said the former player. "The games are being televised or aired on radio all over the place but with the cost of living the way it is the owners want to keep their payroll, especially, that bonus money, down to a minimum."

The National League had 52 Latins in spring training in March, the American League had 41. That's players born in Puerto Rico, the Dominican Republic, Panama, Venezuela, the Virgin Islands, Mexico and Cuba.

The St. Louis Cardinals really went for players who dance a pretty good tango. At St. Petersburg they had 11 Latins on the roster. Six were natives of Puerto Rico, two were Dominicans, two Cubans and one was born in Venezuela.

Five other NL clubs started the spring with five Latins. Only the Chicago Cubs had a completely North American-born team, including pitcher Fergie Jenkins, a native of Ontario, Can. Maybe Phil Wrigley never sold chewing gum in South America. Or else his scouts are still looking.

In the AL the Oakland Athletics had eight Latins in camp. Five other teams have five each. Only the Cleveland Indians had a truly American-born team of 40 roster men.

"If the trend continues," said our friend, "you sports writers will have to take up Spanish."

U.S. In Move To Throw Cup Open To Pros

LONDON (AP) — The United States has made a move to throw the Davis Cup tennis competition open to contract professionals.

Under an American proposal, disclosed Monday by Secretary Basil Reay of the Davis Cup Nations, pros such as Rod Laver, John Newcombe, Pancho Gonzales and Dennis Ralston would be permitted to return to play for the international trophy, started in 1900.

Now only so-called amateurs, or players allied with the national associations, are eligible. The matter will be taken up at the annual meeting here July 2. If adopted, the pros could be in action in 1971.

The big tennis nations—Australia, France and Britain—are said to favor the new move, but there is objection from the smaller nations, who hold the balance of voting power.

These are some 65 countries in the Davis Cup family. All have votes although the bigger countries have greater voting strength.

BEARS GET NEIDERT

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Bears announced Monday they have obtained linebacker John Neidert from the New York Jets for an undisclosed draft choice next year.

Neidert, 6-2, 230 pounds, is from Akron and attended Louisville. He was a sixth-round draft choice in 1968 by Cincinnati and was sold to the Jets midway in that season.

Last year he started four games for the Jets as a middle linebacker.

Cox Leads Winchester To Title

NEW BERLIN — Winchester High school, led by double winner Cliff Cox, nosed out New Berlin and ten other schools to capture the team crown in the first annual New Berlin Invitational Monday afternoon in a meet that witnessed some of the best individual performances of the season.

Winchester ran up 47 points to 42 by New Berlin and 36 by Lincolnwood. Following were Tremont 35 1/2, Mason City 34 1/2, Pleasant Plains 23, Rochester 12, Athens 7, Ashland, Glenwood and Tri-City 6 and Virginia 1.

Cox swept both hurdles events, with an area best of :20.0 in the lows and a second area best of :15.4 in the highs. Cox also ran a leg on the winning 880-relay squad. Teammate Brad Baird was a third, two fourths and a fifth.

Mason City's Roger McDonald turned in a 52.2 440 and Tremont's Charles Flannigan soared 6'0" in the high jump, both area bests.

Area second bests were turned in by Lincolnwood's Larry Zeigler in the 220, :23.0; Mason City's Gary Blessman in the 880, 2:05.4; Mason City's Jim Blaine in the mile run, 4:32.5, with New Berlin's Mike Meier finishing second in 4:32.7.

STATE PRISON

ART SHOW

ATTRACTS 20,000

STATEVILLE, Ill. (AP) — More than $25,000 worth of paintings done by inmates at the Illinois State Penitentiary were sold Sunday during the semi-annual inmate show and art sale outside the prison grounds.

Sponsored by the State of Illinois Department of Correction, the show attracted an estimated 20,000 visitors to view the more than 2,500 works of art on exhibit.

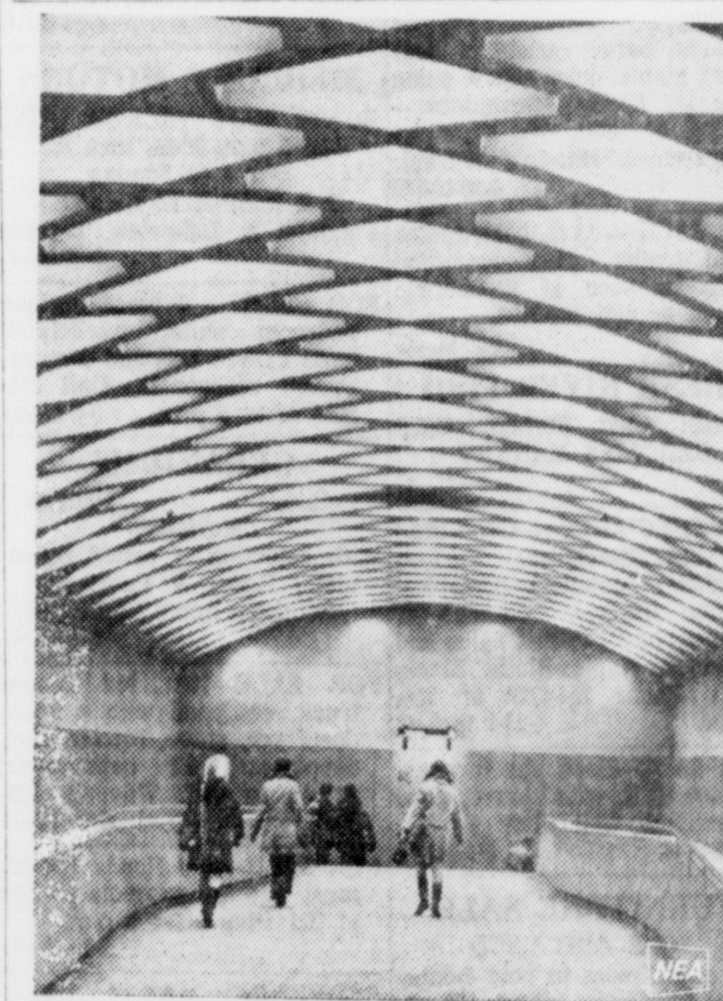

Warden Frank J. Pate, said, "In terms of therapeutic value, inmate rehabilitation and individual incentive, the art program and its semi-annual show have proven highly successful." Pate said that 90 per cent of the sale's money is retained by the inmates, while the other 10 per cent goes toward defraying the cost of art materials needed for each show.

He added that the inmates are good businessmen and know what the art public wants. Pate said this year inmates produced a greater quantity of pen and ink sketches and these proved to be the show's best sellers.

1,000 GALS. OF GAS SPILLS ON HIGHWAY

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP) — More than 1,000 gallons of gasoline spilled onto the intersection of Illinois 111 and Illinois 40 Sunday after a tank truck overturned.

Officials said they encountered difficulty in righting the truck, which still contained 3,000 gallons of gas, because the vehicle slid along fire-preventive foam sprayed on the truck by a crash truck from Scott Air Force Base.

City Awards Line Maintenance Job To Ingram Electric

The Jacksonville city council Monday night approved a resolution awarding the contract for all repairs and maintenance of the electric utility lines to Ingram Electric Co. of Jacksonville.

In effect, the contractual services replace the line maintenance department of the electric utility.

Two dissenting votes were recorded by Aldermen Rex Hazelrigg and Charles Quinn. Richard Doyle "passed" although his vote was cast with the majority in favor of the resolution.

Utilities Sup. Robert Jameson had nine envelopes addressed to the linemen, to indicate that the council had voted to abolish their jobs.

Deny Grievances

Jameson announced earlier in the day that the grievances presented by the linemen were denied and considered a moot point since the department would no longer be employed by the city.

Alderman Clarence Scott told the council that he favored the contractual arrangement to make sure the city's electric customers are properly taken care of and that the contract could be changed in 30 days if found necessary or to the benefit of the city.

Mayor Dan F. Lahey announced that he was still willing to meet with the linemen and that he received their grievance too late in the day to consider it properly before the council meeting.

Special Meeting

Lahey said he would call a special meeting of the council to hear the representative of the linemen discuss their problems. Asked by members of the council and business agent of the union as to when the meeting would be held, Lahey said he would call the meeting "as soon as possible, later this week if a suitable time could be found. Lahey also told the council that in his opinion the city should follow the working agreement of the labor contract.

The linemen have been "sick" almost two weeks. Jameson contends they are on an "unauthorized absence" from work. The linemen did not get paid for any services beyond the day they called in "sick."

The contract with Ingram Electric lists truck drivers at $7.33 per hour; linemen at $10.03 per hour and a crew foreman at $10.75 per hour. Jameson said it was the lowest of three bids sought.

Some discussion concerning an outage in the Randall Court section of the city was discussed by residents of the area as well as union officials. The difficulty was considered unsafe by everyone and Supt. Jameson said steps would be taken to correct the problem. The outage in the small segment amounted to about four hours for both electric utility companies.

Workable Program

The city's long-awaited workable program and the housing code ordinance passed, complete with the emergency clause, with only one dissenting vote from Alderman Quinn.

There was no explanation of the documents. Mayor Lahey said "special consultant Phil Gold was scheduled to explain the documents to the council but got detained by car trouble. Lahey said he would appear later.

The documents should have been filed in mid-March with the Part Two of Urban Renewal. If approved by federal officials in Chicago, the Urban Renewal application will be processed in time to take advantage of about $300,000 in non-cash credits.

Alderman Quinn stated after the meeting that the workable program and housing code were "shoved down the throats of the council." He said that without proper explanation, the two items should have waited another week for approval.

Commenting on another negative vote concerning the line contract, Quinn stated that he felt the contractual services should be advertised for bids among all local electrical contractors. "As far as I'm concerned," Quinn asserted, "we might as well sell the electric department to the highest bidder as soon as possible."

Albert Whowell of 1509 College Avenue was confirmed by the council as the mayor's choice to fill the position on the zoning board of appeals. The board meets next week to consider the sign problem of the local Kentucky Colonel who has a Kentucky Fried Chicken store under construction at the intersection of South West and West Morton Ave.

New Employees

Alderman Dale Brown, chairman of the public protection committee, announced that four firemen and three policemen had been hired effective May 1, by the board of police and fire commissioners.

The four firemen were: Mike Pulley, 1024 S. Clay; Larry Hill, 833 N. Church; Ronnie Markillie, 133 Hardin and Larry Hagen of 732 E. State.

The three policemen appointed were: Fred VanBebber of Scottville; Reginald Cummings of 612 Allen Ave.; Paul C. Baker of 236 W. Chambers. Edward A. Leach, has also completed his one-year probationary period as a patrolman with the police department and is now a full-fledged member of the department.

Alderman Brown said that future appointments will be subject to a one-year probationary period for both police and fire department personnel. Previously firemen served only a six-month period.

Buy Squad Cars

The council voted to purchase two squad cars from Schmitt Chevrolet on their bid of $1,109.62 with trade-ins. No delivery date was announced.

Alderman Brown said it was the low bid.

Bids were rejected earlier when only one firm submitted an approved bid.

The new sewer plant was inundated by water during the flood last week. Alderman John Schulz said the full extent of the damage was not known, although the water level was a full three feet higher than the engineers expected. A foot of water swirled through the city garage but it was reported cleaned up.

Second and final reading was authorized for re-zoning of property located south of West Morton on Massey Lane. The zoning would permit construction of a business to house Baumann Implement Co.

Mayor Lahey called an executive meeting of the council following the public portion.

Several residents discussed recent high water and flood control possibilities with the mayor and sewer department chairman following the council meeting. The area of concern was at Walnut and Finley. Mayor Lahey said he would ask an engineer to study the problem and report back to the council.

Mason Music Festival At IBSSS Monday

The First Lady of Illinois, Mrs. Richard B. Ogilvie, was the guest of honor at the annual Lowell B. Mason Music Festival and awards program held at the Illinois Braille and Sight Saving School Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Ogilvie was greeted by two I.B.S.S.S. students, Rebecca A. Raymer of Sheldon and Charles Smith of Bloomington, who presented her with a nosegay.

William N. Clark, assistant to the publisher of the Chicago Tribune and former Jacksonville resident, introduced Mrs. Ogilvie to the program.

Lowell B. Mason, formerly the youngest senator ever to sit in the Illinois Legislature and member of the Federal Trade Commission, was master of ceremonies for the event.

Mason acquired an interest in the music program at the school when he was in charge of appropriations in the Senate. He has returned to Jacksonville for the affair every year since 1923.

A band, "combo", trumpet selections, piano solos, and both the men's and women's glee clubs were heard during the afternoon program.

Lowell B. Mason prizes were awarded to Debra Hernstrom of Moline and Joseph De Courcy of Canton by Mrs. Ogilvie. The prize is given each year to the male and female students who achieve the most improvement in the school's music program.

Miss Herstrom performed a Chopin composition on the piano and De Courcy played in the band Monday.

The students were directed by Mrs. Mary K. Warren, Miss Marie Shaker and Willard Sittler of the music department.

Achievement pins and insignias were given to band and glee club members.

Pollution Problem

Sewage Disposal Weak In Both City, County

Editor's Note: This is the fourth article on Pollution in the Jacksonville area and Morgan county published in the paper through coordination with William Meyer, acting director at Morgan County Health Department.

No one wants sewage flowing in his yard. Yet, in certain areas of Jacksonville and the county, there is inadequate means of sewage disposal.

In Jacksonville, there are some streets that are not yet served by a separate sanitary sewer. Allen avenue from the railroad tracks on north is not served by a sewer. The majority of residents in this area have septic tanks. Yet this area, because of its drainage characteristics, does not lend itself to the septic tank and underground absorption field method of disposal. There are places on Allen avenue and on East Oak street where waste that has received at best only primary settling of sewage solids flows freely. Samples of this effluent indicate it is loaded with coliform bacteria (a group of bacteria found in sewage) and enterococcus (another that is found in fresh sewage).

The health department has encouraged residents living in these neighborhoods to petition the city of Jacksonville for sanitary sewers, even though they will have to finance part of the bill. One group in this neighborhood has petitioned the city for a sanitary sewer. Hopefully, the city will extend sewers into this area, once their new sewage treatment plant is completed.

Jacksonville has its problems in sewage disposal but they are minor compared to those existing in some of the smaller cities and villages of Morgan county.

Often in Creek
It is a common practice when installing a septic tank in some small villages to connect to the drainage tile. No one seems to own this tile or know where it ends up, but it has been found in several instances that it comes out on the ground surface or drains into the village creek. Two complaints were received and investigated within the past week about drainage. Situations such as this are all the more aggravated during periods of heavy rainfall. This particular village apparently has a very high ground water table, which makes difficult the proper installation of a septic tank system. If these common drainage tiles entered any of the area streams, then the state health department could request the state sanitary water board to order this village, or any other village, to cease polluting the waters of the state. They do not. For this reason, the drainage constitutes localized nuisance conditions, which are the responsibility of village officials for correction.

Village Boards

Village boards in several villages in the county have been advised in writing by both the state sanitary water board and the Morgan County Health Department that they should take action to abate these conditions by satisfactory laws, requiring proper installation of new private sanitary systems and requiring abatement of those that are improperly installed and creating a public health nuisance. These officials are also advised to take steps to install separate sanitary sewer systems and waste treatment plants.

Rural Areas Hit

More and more, reports are being received throughout the state about cases of infectious hepatitis and encephalitis, especially in rural areas of the state where there are poor sewage disposal practices and germs are being transferred by insect and rodents vectors that breed in these areas.

Proper sewage disposal in all parts of our county will be expensive when one considers the cost of sewers and sewage treatment facilities, but it is cheap compared to the cost of one outbreak of illness in a community.

State Honors Manlove For DVR Counseling

Robert Manlove, counselor at Illinois Division of Vocational Rehabilitation in Jacksonville, was one of seven persons selected to receive Illinois Rehabilitation Association honors in Region 7.

Robert Manlove

Announcement was made last week at the Region 7 meeting held in Rock Island. Miss Betty Teaford of Jacksonville was chairman of the IRA awards committee and nomination of Manlove was made by Howard Boes, mental health counselor at Jacksonville State hospital.

Mr. Manlove was nominated for his many years of service as a counselor in the Jacksonville office of the DVR and specifically for two contributions: His leadership and initiative over ten years back in helping to found Elm City Rehabilitation Center in Jacksonville.

SUNDAY RITES FOR VIRGIL MARTIN
